

CASE STUDY

ROCK
RECRUITMENT SPECIALISTS

QUOSTAR

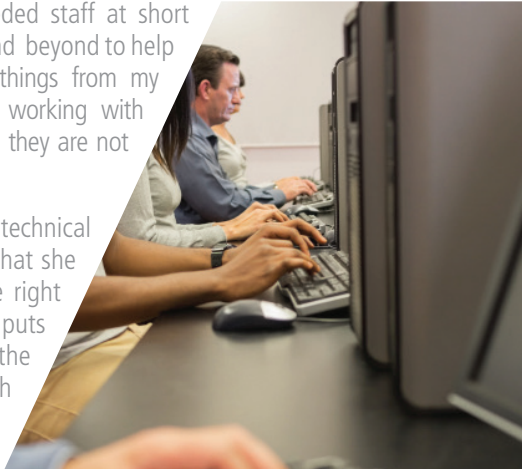

QuoStar is a rapid-growth, privately-held IT firm based in Bournemouth, Winchester and London. They assist their clients in managing their everyday IT services, delivering specific IT projects and to utilise IT systems to gain a competitive edge.

As a growing business, QuoStar have used Rock to help them with their recruitment needs, often requiring new staff to have specific skills and technical experience and at times requiring staff at very short notice. QuoStar work closely with Angela Fletcher, Rock's Managing Director on their Recruitment needs.

James Stelfox, Managing Director at QuoStar says, "Angela gives exceptional customer service and we always feel that our business needs are at the forefront of her mind. She takes the time to understand us and when we have needed staff at short notice, she has gone above and beyond to help us. I hear nothing but good things from my guys about their experience of working with Angela. That's pretty impressive, as they are not easily impressed!"

He concludes "Angela has worked on technical and non-technical roles and it is clear that she is an expert, as she always finds us the right people. She meets each candidate and only puts forward those that she knows are right for the role and our culture. This thorough approach saves us masses of time - we never have to look at a CV that isn't right."

The thorough approach saves us masses of time, we never have to look at a CV that isn't right.